

A Terrific Stock to Have on Your Watch List

Description

The easiest way to tell if a company is a good one is by looking at its long-term price chart. MTY Food Group Inc. (TSX:MTY) has delivered tremendous value to its long-term shareholders.

An investment made 11 years ago, in 2007, before the last recession occurred, would have delivered an annualized return of +16%. This is above average, as the average market returns is 10%.

Canada, and 9% are abroad. So, a strong U.S. dollar against the Canadian dollar will be helpful to the company's bottom line.

In the last reported quarter, MTY's Canadian operations contributed 68% of its earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortization (EBITDA), while its U.S. and international operations contributed 32% (an increase of 3% compared to the prior year).

Senior management changes

Earlier this month, MTY announced that its founder and CEO of nearly 40 years, Mr. Stanley Ma, will step down from the role of CEO on November 2. However, he'll continue to be the chairman of the board.

Additionally, Mrs. Claude St-Pierre, who is the chief operating officer, will also step down on November 2 to focus on the company's acquisition strategy. She will remain as the company's director and secretary.

Changes in management will increase uncertainty. However, it should be a smooth transition because Mr. Eric Lefebvre, who has been with the company since 2009 and is currently MTY's CFO, will take the helm as CEO in November. Lefebvre will put together a team of executives to fill St-Pierre's duties and name a new CFO.
